Not many can be like Christ on the cross, but every body can be like Him in pleasing little children and in saying comforting words to the discouraged.
 "Is your wife economical?"
 "Very. Look at the clothes she makes me wear."

Some Runner
 One day a college youth went west and got work on a farm. He wasn't very well informed about farm life, but as he was willing to work the farmer hired him. That night the farmer said, "How are you—a pretty good runner, boy?"
 The collegian swelled with pride. "I took prize at college for being the fastest runner."
 "Well there," said the farmer, "you can bring in the sheep."
 Two hours later the young man entered exhausted, his breath coming in short gasps.
 "Have any trouble?" asked the farmer, grinning to himself.
 "I got the sheep in easy enough," said the youth, "but I had an awful time catching the lambs."
 "Why, I haven't any lambs," said the farmer, in surprise.
 Together they walked to the pen. There were all the sheep—and also five jackrabbits.—Rotarian.

Wear A Smile
 Learn to know as you jog along The value of a smile—
 A glint of sunlight on your face Just as you meet the while,
 It speaks a message of its own To stranger and to friend;
 So wear a smile and pass it on, T'will pay you in the end.
 The load which other souls must bear Will somehow lighter grow,
 Because you met them with a smile, And kept your heart aglow,
 And some day they will smile on you, When you are not aware,
 And chase the shawdos from your bear.
 When you are press'd by care.

Didn't Mean to Kill Wife
 El Paso, Sept. 14.—Henry J. Spannelli, who was indicted yesterday by the grand jury of Brewster County on two charges of murder in the first degree for killing his wife and Lieut. Col. M. C. Butler of the sixth cavalry on July 20, while the three were out motoring, returned to Alpine closely guarded last night.
 "I did not intend to kill my wife," Spannelli explained. He added quickly in explanation that his wife jumped in front of the army officer.

Written For Last Week

Miss Mae Taylor is on a visit to her friend Miss Azalee Lybrand, at Swansea.
 Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lever and little Miss Sara Catherine, are at home in Lexington to spend the winter.
 Misses Caville Veda Barre have returned from Columbia, having spent several days with Miss Morgorie Luther.
 Mrs. L. M. Mitchell, of Batesburg, is spending several days in town as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kellers Mitchell.
 Mrs. Julian P. Meetze and little Miss Minnie Rachel have returned from an extended visit to her home in St. Matthews.
 Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Lawson and Mrs. I. H. Nunamaker, of Columbia, spent Sunday in Lexington with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Dent.
 Mrs. Rheede H. Addy has returned to her home at Gilbert after a week's stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Caughmann.
 Last week our folder did not work satisfactory causing us to send out many copies damaged, running short. It looks like trouble follows trouble, but we hope to get straight next week.
 Miss Belle Kaminer, a very popular special nurse, of Spartanburg, accompanied by Miss Langston, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Addie D. Kaufmann, and other relatives in and near town.
 Mr. William Platt, the dry goods and notion merchant of No. 1804 Main street, Columbia, with several ladies, had the misfortune to get truck 33 stuck in the branch beyond the depot at Geoges a few days ago. They had had a nice picnic and were en route home when it happened. Mr. Dibble and several others together pulled them out and, with profuse thanks, they went on their way rejoicing.
